

Modern slavery is a crime resulting in an abhorrent abuse of the human rights of vulnerable workers. It can take various forms, such as slavery, servitude, forced or compulsory labour and human trafficking.

Checkmate Fire Solutions Limited (Checkmate Fire) has a zero-tolerance approach to modern slavery and is committed to acting ethically and with integrity and transparency in all of its business dealings and relationships and to implementing and enforcing effective systems and controls to ensure that modern slavery and human trafficking are not taking place anywhere within either its own business or in any of its supply chains, consistent with its obligations under the Modern Slavery Act 2015.

Checkmate Fire also expects the same high standards from all suppliers, contractors, and other business partners. All contracts include specific prohibitions against the use of modern slavery and expects that its suppliers will in turn hold their own supply chain to the same standards.

Identifying potential victims of modern slavery can be a challenge because the crime can manifest itself in many ways. There is a spectrum of abuse, and it is not always clear at what point, for example, poor working practices and lack of health and safety awareness have become instances of human trafficking, slavery or forced labour in a work environment. In addition, some suppliers may go to great lengths to hide the fact that they are using slave labour. However, Checkmate Fire accepts that it has a responsibility through its due diligence processes to ensure that workers are not being exploited, that they are safe, and that relevant employment, health and safety and human rights laws and standards are being adhered to, including freedom of movement and communications.

This policy applies to all individuals working for Checkmate Fire or on Checkmate Fire’s behalf in any capacity, including employees, directors, officers, agency workers, volunteers, agents, contractors, consultants, and business partners.

Responsibility for the policy

The CEO has overall responsibility for ensuring that this policy complies with Checkmate Fire’s legal and ethical obligations, including compliance with the Modern Slavery Act 2015.

The CEO has day-to-day responsibility for implementing this policy, monitoring compliance and effectiveness, and auditing internal control systems and policies and procedures to ensure they are effective in preventing or remediating the risk of modern slavery. They are also responsible for investigating allegations of modern slavery in Checkmate Fire’s business or supply chains.

Line managers are responsible for ensuring that those reporting to them understand and comply with this policy.

Compliance

The prevention, detection and reporting of modern slavery in any part of the Checkmate Fire’s business or supply chains is the responsibility of all those working for Checkmate Fire or under the Checkmate Fire’s control.

You are required to avoid any activity that might lead to a breach of this policy.

If you believe or suspect a breach of or conflict with this policy has occurred or may occur, you must notify your line manager or report it in accordance with Checkmate Fire’s whistleblowing policy.

Employees and contractors are encouraged to raise concerns about any issue or suspicion of modern slavery in any part of the Checkmate Fire’s business or supply chains as soon as possible through the Company’s Whistleblowing procedures. If you are unsure about whether a particular act, the treatment of workers or their working conditions within any of the Checkmate Fire’s supply chains constitutes any of the various forms of modern slavery, please raise it with your line manager. You can also contact the government’s Modern Slavery Helpline on 0800 0121 700 for further information and guidance on modern slavery.

Checkmate Fire aims to encourage openness and will support anyone who raises genuine concerns in good faith under this policy, even if they turn out to be mistaken. The Checkmate Fire is committed to ensuring no one suffers any detrimental treatment or victimisation as a result of reporting in good faith their suspicion that modern slavery is or may be taking place in any part of its business or in any of its supply chains.

Training and communication

Mandatory training on this policy, and on the risk that the business faces from modern slavery in its supply chains, will be provided to all relevant staff , so that they know how to identify exploitation and modern slavery and how to report suspected cases.

Checkmate Fire’s zero tolerance approach to modern slavery must be communicated to all suppliers, contractors and other business partners when entering into new or renewed contracts with them.

Breach of the policy

Any employee who breaches this policy will face disciplinary action, up to and including summary dismissal for gross misconduct (dismissal without notice).

Checkmate Fire may terminate its commercial contracts with suppliers, contractors, and other business partners if they breach this policy and/or are found to have been involved in modern slavery.

This policy will be reviewed annually.
